Chapter 1 by Story Wars

Everybody has an opinion and it's these opinions that shape not only us but the things around us. The more that follows an opinion become essentially the majority, and apart from the few exceptions the majority opinion shapes our society.

Do you have an opinion on anything?

Chapter 2 by Edmund

My opinion is that the majority of companies that advertise should incur a heavy fine for the misrepresentation of their products. If I drive past a motorway build-board that advertises a Big Mac, expect to get the product as illustrated on that billboard.

Plus buying it illustrates my intention of eating the burger of that size, as opposed to walking out with a little paper bag!

Chapter 3 by Nyq

Yep, that's my opinion, but there will never be Big Macs of that size, I said to myself going to work.

Chapter 4 by Intellikat

My opinion of the Filet-O-Fish, is, however, quite different. I feel the Filet-O-Fish (FOF) to be a remarkable stroke of engineering prowess. As the FOF floats through the air before me in bed, as I dream of days gone by and those yet to come, I savour every delicious bite. This is my opinion, and you cannot take it from me.

Chapter 5 by Nyq

But I'd like a FOF with the size of a Big Mac. The exquisite flavor of the burger flows through my mouth with every bite. Every time I finished my FOF, my heart tells me that's not enough. It will be better if coupled with the delicate size of the Big Mac.

Chapter 6 by intellikat

And don't even get me started on Chicken McNuggets! They SHOULD BE CALLED Stupid McStupids, for reasons fairly obvious to all here. Basically... EVERY TIME I order Chicken McNougats, THEY GET THE NUMBER WRONG. Why advertise a 4-piece, 6-piece, or 10-piece Chiggin' McNuggets if you don't even bother to count them before you shovel them into my box??? I'm not expecting you to hire Archimedes or Sir Isaac Newton as your fry line cook, but the average human being HAS A MINIMUM of 10 fingers between both hands with which we can use to count! Christ Almighty, that's my opinion.

Chapter 7 by Nyq

I think I should stop my complaining, as I have more opinions on the French Fries. The French Fries was a great combination between texture and taste. The crispy exterior and the soft, fluffy interior of the fries are a marvel by themselves, only to be better when combined with the mild salty taste that accompanies them. The yellow brown and sometimes brown color of the French Fries attracts my sight in every possible way. The fragrance of the French Fries is drawing me to them every single time. The feeling after I binge on these exquisite culinary marvels cannot be described using words.
